Summary

The monthly report is to provide Council with an update on the operations at the Rylington Park Farm.

Background

The Rylington Park Institute for Agricultural Training and Research, known as Rylington Park, is a key agricultural asset located 27km from Boyup Brook, in Mayanup.

This 650-hectare property was donated to the Shire of Boyup Brook in 1985 by Mr. Eric Farleigh for agricultural research and training, aimed at the betterment of the Boyup Brook community. Managed by the Shire, the property runs various agricultural programs, including shearing schools and fertiliser and seed trials.

It also offers scholarships to youth in agriculture and has a strategic relationship with Edith Cowan University for research and education, with the intent to share findings with the local farming community. Rylington

Park is committed to supporting the agricultural industry and the regional community through its various initiatives.

Sustainability and risk considerations

Economic – (Impact on the Economy of the Shire and Region)

Rylington Park Farm contributes economically to both the Shire and Region by providing education and skill development in agriculture which can enhance the workforce, leading to more efficient and innovative farming practices.

Conducting agricultural research can lead to better farming techniques and increased productivity, positively impacting the local economy. The farm also hosting field days and the event draws visitors locally and regionally which can stimulate local spending.

Offering scholarships encourages local youth to pursue careers in agriculture, potentially leading to a more skilled labour pool. Shearing schools support the sheep industry, vital for the local economy. These activities can lead to job creation, increased productivity, and the overall growth of Boyup Brook's agricultural sector.

Social – (Quality of life to community and / or affected landowners)

Rylington Park Farm can impact the quality of life in the Boyup Brook community by enhancing access to agricultural training and education, boosting local economy through job creation and agricultural advancements.

The farm also brings community members together during events and field days, and through its training encourages young people to consider futures in agriculture, aiding in community retention.

That the Committee:
1. Acknowledge the updated agronomy report for 2025 as per attachment 7.1.2A.
 For: Against:

Summary

The Committee is requested to consider the proposed updated agronomy report for the 2025 cropping season.

Background

For the 2025 cropping season, having an agronomy report is essential for any farm to ensure optimal crop performance and long-term sustainability.

An agronomy report provides detailed insights into soil health, nutrient requirements, and pest or disease risks, all of which are critical for making informed decisions on crop selection and management practices.

“Committee Resolution RP 24/12/082

That the Committee:

- 1. Acknowledge the updated agronomy report for 2025 as per attachment 7.1.2A.*
- 2. Request an updated agronomy report be presented to the next committee meeting.*

Summary

To consider a collaborative project with project partners Greening Australia, Edith Cowan University, and AWI together with Shire of Boyup Brook Rylington Park Committee located at Rylington Park Farm through the Rylington Park Agricultural Research and Training Institute. Following a Rylington Park Farm visit on Monday 9 December 2024 by Ruth Cripps, Land and Restoration Lead, Greening Australia, relevant areas for integrated management were identified and mapped. Two presenters from Greening Australia, Ruth Cripps and Adin Lang, Commercial Development Manager at Greening will outline a project proposal that seeks to develop a coordinated response to reversing farm environmental degradation and improving livestock management in a native vegetation forage system that is funded externally though independent sources.

Background

Greening Australia, AWI and ECU propose a project on the topic of Using integrated native planting to restore farm landscapes for environmental, economic and productivity improvements.

The project concept builds on and supports physical planting, restoration activity of degraded farmland, using a system of carbon credits, and research into use of native vegetation together with management of livestock grazing.

Objectives: enhance productivity, climate resilience, carbon mitigation and biodiversity by re-establishing perennial native plants across farmland:

- Assess ecosystem (carbon, biodiversity, overall sustainability) and productivity benefits using native vegetation plantings, apply learnings to whole-of-farm systems; extend results to producers.
- Validate Nature-based Solution approaches for mixed crop-livestock enterprises, providing critical information facilitating marginal/non-productive area uptake, a means to offset carbon emissions/increase operational sustainability

Report detail

Project Title: Using integrated native planting to restore farm landscapes for environmental, economic and productivity improvements.

Project Aims: To develop and better understand several integrated systems of carbon credits, restoration of degraded areas, and Shade, Shelter, Forage planting and livestock management.

Objectives: To enhance farm productivity, carbon mitigation and biodiversity by using integrated management systems and perennial native plants.

The project concept builds on and supports physical planting, restoration activity, carbon credits, research into use of native vegetation and management of livestock grazing.

Project Duration: 3 years - May 2025-May 2028
