Messages may also continue to exist long after the sender has deleted them. Deletion eliminates the message or file name from your computer directory but the information itself exists in the backup system until it has been overwritten.
5. A copy of all incoming and outgoing email messages will be received by the Records Officer and electronically registered. A copy of the email will be printed onto green paper and filed in the Central Records System.

6. Remember that email is admissible as evidence in court so use good judgment and think carefully about what is written.
7. Make sure to follow email etiquette. Keep the message polite and don't write in upper case as this is considered as 'shouting'. Only send information that is of value to the receiver and don't make messages High Priority unless they are truly urgent.
8. All discs loaded onto Shire equipment are to be virus scanned. No attachments should be opened or stored unless the employee can positively identify the sender.
